

Luxury Real Estate Broker Alliance

All over the country, luxury brokers are discovering that an auction can transform premier properties into the center of attention and turn an aging or expiring listing into a commission. With our highly visible campaign to a regional, national and global audience, a Auction One auction casts a wider net than other real estate programs. That's why brokers who have turned to Auction One in the past tend to come back with future properties.

Brokers, who have time motivated sellers, partner with Auction One because they can sell and close their property in an accelerated time frame. Through our selected database, you can effectively reach an exclusive and affluent buyer profile, while freeing up your time and resources to obtain new clients and listings.

Through the Alliance Referral Program, Auction One has created alliances with many brokerage throughout communities coast to coast . Brokers throughout the U. S. are looking for way to accelerate their Real Estate business and there is no better way than a Real Estate Auction.

The ideal candidate for an auction is a property expected to sell for $1.5 million or more with a seller committed to selling at a market price determined by the open competition of the auction. It can be especially useful for properties that, for some reason, have had difficulty rising above the market clutter and attracting attention. Because numerous factors go into a property's suitability for auction, it is best to consult a Auction One Auction Marketing Specialist for a complete evaluation.

Auction One will equip brokers and their clients with our marketing and auction expertise while supplying sellers with an option to accelerate the sell of their property in less than 45 to 60 days.
